

HUGHES ASSERTS HE DOES NOT WANT WAR

States Correct Policies Will Keep America Out of War

MAKES SIX ADDRESSES

Terms Statement That a Vote for Him Means a Vote for War Preposterous

SPEAKS OF THE TARIFF

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 14.—Charles Evans Hughes today characterized as "preposterous" the declaration that a vote for him meant a vote for war. "I am a man of peace," Mr. Hughes said. "Who wants war? I don't want war."

Correct policies Mr. Hughes said would keep America out of war.

"That sort of thing we have been having will not keep us out of war," he said. "It will embroil us in difficulty."

In the six addresses which marked the opening day of his presidential campaign in Nebraska, the Republican nominee discussed nearly all the issues of the campaign.

The country was living he said on "the stimulant of the European war and would not long have the stimulant."

"You might as well talk to a drunken man of the bliss of intoxication," Mr. Hughes said. "Our opponents, instead of making political capital out of the present prosperity which came up thru the European war, ought to be thinking of what they did to the country with their policy, put in force thru the Underwood bill. There may be those who enjoy the contemplation of that sort of thing, but they will have a very rude awakening."

The nominee assailed the Adamson bill as a "20-1 brick" handed to labor. This declaration was made before an audience of railroad employees, who crowded around his car at Wymore.

At Falls City, Beatrice, Fairbury, Fairmount, York and here tonight, Mr. Hughes addressed audiences, which frequently interrupted him to applaud.

"I have heard it said since I came into Nebraska," Mr. Hughes said, "that somebody has been going thru the state saying that a vote for me meant a vote for war."

"Did you ever hear a more preposterous proposition to present to men? I am a man of peace. I have been spending my life in maintaining the institutions of peace, I desire in that way to promote international peace. Who can think without horror of the ravages of war? Who can desire war? I do not desire war. I do not desire petty wars. I do not desire war in Mexico to satisfy a personal vindictiveness against a disliked ruler. I don't like that kind of war."

"I believe in correct policies. They will keep us out of war. The sort of thing we have been having will not keep us out of war. It will embroil us in difficulty. It did embroil us in difficulty in Mexico."

Mr. Hughes reviewed the administration's policy with respect to Huerta.

Reverting to the tariff Mr. Hughes said:

"I want to see this very difficult and important matter attended to with the utmost care and fairness. It can be done if we get the facts that apply to each situation; and I believe in a tariff commission; but it is perfectly idle for anybody to talk to the American public as if a tariff commission were a solution of tariff difficulties. Tariff commissions don't legislate."

Mr. Hughes spoke for the election of a Republican Senate.

"I do not wish to see simply the success of the presidential ticket," Mr. Hughes said. "I want to see a Republican Senate and the election of a Republican senator from this state."

Mr. Hughes will remain in Lincoln over Sunday.

FUNSTON SPEAKS TO ILLINOIS GUARDSMEN

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 14.—When President Wilson issued the call for the national guard last June it was a "question of hours" Major Gen. Frederick Funston told members of the Third and Fourth Illinois Infantry at a dinner here last night. Since that time there has not been a moment, the general told his hearers, when it would have been safe to reduce the number of men on the Mexican border.

"When you men of the national guard were called out," Gen. Funston said, "of course you expected to go 'slam-bang' across the border and let me tell you that when history is written, it will show that the calling out of the guard in June was no child's play—that it was a 'question of hours.' The reason for calling out the national guard was absolutely necessary. All of you will know why some day. And I do not think there has been any time since when it would have been safe to reduce the number of men on the border."

REITERATE RIGHT TO SEARCH MAIL

Allies Promise to Remedy "Any Faults, Abuses or Serious Mistakes"

MAKE REPLY PUBLIC

Cite Long Line of Precedents To Support Validity of Censorship

DELAYS UNAVOIDABLE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 14.—In their latest reply to American protests against their interference with neutral mails made public tonight by the state department, the Allied Governments reiterate their right to intercept and search all genuine mail found on neutral vessels on the high seas or in Allied ports, but they promise to remedy "any faults, abuses, or serious mistakes" in censorship that may be brought to their attention. They declare unjustified by facts the American charge that illegal jurisdiction has been gained by diversion of neutral ships from the high seas into the territorial waters of the Allies. The next move of the American government has not been determined.

The note transmitted jointly by the British and French governments, was delivered to the State Department by the embassies last Thursday but was not made public until tonight by agreement of the governments concerned. It makes reply to Secretary Lansing's memorandum of May 24 in which the United States declared the Allies had been guilty of "lawless practices" in their mail censorship methods and that "only a radical change, restoring to the United States its full rights as a neutral power, will satisfy this government."

It is maintained by the Allies in their latest note that they are "sincerely endeavoring to avoid any encroachment on the legitimate exercise of the rights of inoffensive neutral commerce."

Delays and annoyances are unavoidable, it is pointed out, in the exercise of full belligerent rights by Allied authorities, and a long list of precedents are cited to support the validity of the Allied censorship methods.

The note is nearly five thousand words in length. It argues that the United States and the Allies agree that the Postal Union Convention does not apply and that postal packages may be examined to see if they contain contraband. That being so, the note contends it is necessary to open postal bags and examination cannot take place at sea without delay and inconvenience. Arrangements now have been made to carry on the examination with the least possible delay and to forward innocent articles to their destination.

An examination of precedents is held to show that the great powers have claimed the right to intercept enemy correspondence in neutral mails. The Allied argument follows the line of President Lincoln's proclamation of May 12, 1862, which declared things and information as equally contraband of war and cities the fact that intercepted enemy correspondence was used in the United States courts during the Civil War and laid before Congress.

After asserting that the United States and the Allies are in agreement on principles but differ as to their application, the note in reply to Secretary Lansing's declaration that the Allies "compel neutral ships without just cause to enter their own ports, thus acquiring by force or unjustifiable means an illegal jurisdiction," says:

"The Allied Governments have never differentiated between their treatment of mails on board a neutral vessel on the high seas and those on board a neutral vessel compulsorily diverted to an Allied port."

Contending that the practice followed by the Powers in former wars establishes the general rule of the right to examine neutral mails outside of territorial waters, the note amplifies that argument in the following terms:

"On the high seas, according to international law, it is for the belligerents to search for and to prevent operations of transport or other services by which neutral vessels can give co-operation and assistance to the hostile operations of the enemy. A few lines of a letter conveyed to the enemy may be as useful or more useful to his war-like operations than a cargo of arms and ammunition. Experience in the course of the present war has in fact demonstrated the truth of this observation. Hostile acts have failed which had been planned thru the mails. Dangerous plots, which the enemy does not even spare neutral countries, have been detected in the mails and foiled."

The note concludes: "The American memorandum lays great stress on the view that the rights of neutrals and of belligerents are equally sacred and must be strictly observed. The Allied Gov-

CONDUCT HEARING ON REQUEST FOR WARRANTS

Chicago Police Captain Testifies Before Justice Olson

O'Brien States He Had Been Powerless to Control Vicious Resorts in His Districts Because of Interference from Higher Officials.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—William J. O'Brien, police captain, suspended on charges of neglect of duty, testified today that he had been powerless to control vicious resorts in his districts because of interference from higher officials. His testimony, accompanied by correspondence seized by State's Attorney MacLay Hoyne in a recent raid on the Municipal Court on Hoyne's application for warrants for the arrest on charges of malfeasance and conspiracy of Chief Healey and his secretary, William Luthardt.

States Senator Geo. F. Harding and Oscar de Priest, negro alderman of the second ward, were implicated as well as Healey and Luthardt for exercising a restraining hand over the police captain in whose district had recently sprung up several all-night cafes in which whites and blacks met and danced and drank together. The resorts had been allowed to open O'Brien testified in spite of his written reports discrediting the character of their owners and urging that licenses be refused.

Alderman de Priest was named as having been responsible for obtaining licenses for cafes in the district after O'Brien had refused to recommend them.

Mayor William Hale Thompson has been summoned as a witness and is expected to appear Monday.

Tonight the city hall is under special guard to prevent further raids and seizures by Hoyne.

"There will be no more raids without warrants of law," said Chief Healey. "I have ordered a policeman to patrol every corridor and will keep them there until the whole controversy is over."

IRRIGATION CONGRESS TO OPEN AT EL PASO

International Farm Congress Will Follow With Big Soil Products Exposition.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 13.—The opening here tomorrow of the International Irrigation Congress marks the beginning of ten days of events considered of importance to agriculture in this and other countries. The Irrigation Congress will be followed by the International Farm Congress which begins October 19, and the International Soil Products Exposition which begins on October 17 and lasts to October 24. This will be the twenty-third annual meeting of the Irrigation Congress and it is the second time that the sessions have been held in El Paso.

Dedicated tomorrow of the great Elephant Butte dam, across the Rio Grande north of Rincon, New Mexico, is to precede events here. The real business of the congress begins with appointment of committees on Monday which also has been set aside as a special day in honor of the governors of states west of the Mississippi river and representatives of foreign countries.

The International Farm Congress will begin its sessions Oct. 19. Its business is in a measure interwoven with that of the Irrigation Congress in spite of the fact that it deals with dry farming methods. This will be the eleventh annual congress and it too has held previous meetings in El Paso.

Several large buildings have been constructed to house the International Soil Products Exposition, all of which are crowded with displays sent by the United States Department of Agriculture, the Canadian and Mexican governments, several Central and South American republics, several Canadian provinces, twenty states of the United States, hundreds of individual farmers and two hundred manufacturers and commercial institutions.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS TO PENNSYLVANIANS

States "America Always Ready to Fight for Things that Are American"

SUMS UP ISSUES

Reiterates Advocacy of League of Nations To Preserve World Peace

ATTACKS MOOSE LEADERS

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 14.—In a speech before a large delegation of Pennsylvania Democrats who came here with bands playing and banners flying President Wilson declared today that while he is for peace "America is always ready to fight for things that are American." He summed up his idea of the issues of the present campaign in the words:

"America knows that it is faced with this choice: Peace, the continuance of the development of business along the lines which it has now established and developed and the maintenance of well known progressive lines of action on the one hand; or on the other a disturbance of policy all along the line, new conditions, new adjustments, undefined alterations of policy, and back of it all invisible government."

The president discussed what he declared was the attitude toward war and peace of different elements of the Republican party.

"I understand from the leaders of the Republican Party that nothing has been done right," he said. "They do not say that the thing was always wrong but the way in which it was done was always wrong. They do not venture to say, that is the private counsel does not venture to say that we wanted anything but peace but they would have preferred some other way, not disclosed, of obtaining peace. The vocal part says 'we wanted war.' The silent part wanted another kind of peace. They intimate that we wanted peace, but can never get over that fundamental uneasiness, gentlemen, that America is in charge of somebody else than themselves. But America knows that the things that were done did obtain peace, and it does not know that the things that might have been done would have obtained peace."

Continuing his discussion of the foreign affairs of the nation Mr. Wilson declared that altho the leaders of the Republican party demand that the rights of Americans be protected everywhere, on one occasion the "Republican machine was able to compel a majority of its members in the House of Representatives to vote that American citizens had no right to travel on the high seas."

Mr. Wilson reiterated his advocacy of a league of nations to preserve the peace of the world and attacked the leaders of the Progressive party, who he said, had betrayed the rank and file.

He also declared that the selection of a congress is just as important as the election of a president because "the real source of action and the real machinery of obstruction is in Congress."

He asserted that the forces of reaction are in control of the Republicans in congress.

Vance C. McCormick, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, presided at the meeting and A. Mitchell Palmer, Democratic committeeman from Pennsylvania introduced Mr. Wilson.

The delegation which came here on eight special trains constituted the largest audience which has heard the president speak at Shadow Lawn. After the speech the president shook hands with everybody present.

Carl E. Robinson for States Attorney

Morgan county is fortunate in having Carl E. Robinson as a candidate for states attorney. No young man has made a better record for self-help and accomplishment than the Republican candidate. Carl Robinson has earned every bit of the advancement he has made. He and hard work have always been his friends. He is a graduate not only of a high school, a college and a law school, but he has been educated in the school of experience—where the ability to persevere in the midst of discouragements and seemingly insurmountable obstacles is a part of the price to be paid for a diploma. His record has been made in Morgan county where as a student working his way through college, as a school teacher and as an attorney at the bar, he has proved himself worthy of the confidence and esteem of his fellow-men.

He can be trusted with the office of states attorney. If elected, in the discharge of his official duties he will know how to be firm and at the same time be fair. He will conduct the office on the four square principle—and even banded justice for all the people will be his motto and his constant aim.

As a farm hand, coal miner, and section hand on the railroad, as chore boy while at college, as school teacher, as field agent and as lawyer, Mr. Robinson has had a varied experience. He knows life. He knows men. He knows what fairness and justice is, because he has been a student in the school of necessity. His experiences have given him broad sympathies.

Carl Robinson as states attorney would not be a persecutor but a protector who would serve all the people in a fair and just manner. He would discharge the duties of his office with impartiality.

Roosevelt's Picturesque Way.

It was characteristic of Colonel Roosevelt to go down into Pennsylvania, the scenes of so many labor troubles, and there discuss the Adamson bill which the Democratic administration is seeking to show is a very beneficial measure to labor. Colonel Roosevelt pointed out how there are dangerous possibilities in the Adamson law for labor and in his picturesque way suggested how congress, if legally able to increase wages, by law might later on take away from labor in a ruthless manner.

This is the illustration that the colonel used:

"In the old days, thirty years ago, when I lived on a cow ranch in the short grass country, the branding iron and the cowboy took the place of fences, and our herds were managed by branding each calf with the brand of the cow it followed. If the calf was not branded the first year, then the next year when it was an unbranded yearling, it was called a maverick. By range law we were supposed to brand each maverick with the brand of the ranch on which it was found. One day I was riding across a neighbor's ranch with a puncher I had just hired, and we came across a maverick. We got down our ropes, threw the maverick and built a little fire of sagebrush to heat one of the cinch rings, and the puncher started to run on the brand. I said, 'Put on the thistle brand'—the brand of the range we were on. He answered, 'All right, boss, I know my business,' and in another minute he had put on my brand, remarking, 'I always put on the boss's brand.' I answered, 'Well, go back to the ranch and get your time.' He jumped up and said, 'What's that for? I was putting on your brand, wasn't I?' I answered, 'Yes, my friend, you were putting on my brand, and if you will steal for me you will steal from me!'"

FRED HENDERSON TITLED FOR CIRCUIT CLERKSHIP.

Fred B. Henderson, who is the Republican candidate for circuit clerk, is a product of Morgan county, as he has spent his entire life here. Mr. Henderson is the son of the late Josephus Henderson and the old family home farm, which is still owned by the heirs, is located just east of Arcadia. It was about eighteen years ago that Mr. Henderson went into the mercantile business at Arcadia and still conducts a store there, where a satisfactory business is done. All thru the years he has paid some attention to farming and has "farmed" in connection with his store business.

Mr. Henderson has for a number of years been township treasurer of 16-10 and served for a number of years as a clerk of road district No. 2. He for six years was public administrator of Morgan county. He understands bookkeeping and book systems thoroughly and his experience as township treasurer, as a school board clerk, a notary public, as justice of the peace and as public administrator have given him a general knowledge of county affairs, which would be of great value to him in the conduct of the circuit clerk's office if chosen by the voters at the coming election.

OF BIGGER, BETTER ONE IN 1917

Jacksonville's Fall Festival which closed Saturday night, was a very successful event. There were many visitors each day in the city and they evidently found the various programs arranged for their entertainment well worth while. Business men who had supported Secretary Rodgers in his efforts in arranging for the festival were pleased with the result. The greatest benefit from the festival will come if it is a forerunner of a still larger festival for the fall of 1917, developed more extensively along agricultural lines.

The very good suggestion has been made that business interests of Jacksonville thru the Chamber of Commerce should proceed with the organization of a Jacksonville fair association. If this step were taken it would be possible to secure assistance from the state in the giving of prizes. The state law provides that where fair associations give $1,000 in prizes for agricultural and livestock exhibits that the state will pay $600, and on the second $1,000 will pay $500. Because of the increasing number of fairs since that law was placed upon the statute books, it is not always possible to secure the payment of just the amounts suggested above, but something approximately those figures could be secured. There are certain restrictions but they would obtain here anyhow. For example, the law provides that there must be no gambling devices or liquor sold upon the ground and that the money secured from the state must not be given as premiums for racing events.

In addition to the aid which could be secured from this state fund, it would be possible to secure material assistance in the matter of exhibits and demonstrations. The state shares thru the Smith-Lever bill a federal appropriation which is expended for demonstration work. Without any cost demonstration workers in household and agricultural lines can be secured from the University of Illinois. In the festival week just closed the exhibit and demonstration in the dairy tent was thronged with people every day. This gives some idea of the interest which would be created thru a larger number and more extensive demonstrations.

A festival given by the city next year should develop especially along agricultural lines. The exhibits given at some of the precinct farmers' institutes give an index of what festival exhibits could be here. By interesting the country schools in the project, just as is done at some of the precinct institutes, exhibits could be secured, which would attract thousands of people to Jacksonville and prove of real interest and value. If this plan appeals to the business men and citizens generally it will be necessary to begin preparations at an early date, by effecting organization and by putting in application for the state aid in the several lines already indicated. It will not be possible to wait until next summer to organize and then ask for the money from the state fund and co-operation of the state university.

The suggestion has also been made that without going to excessive expense, if the Jacksonville fair association were organized that the displays in the park might be so housed that the whole would present a very attractive appearance. By erecting temporary wooden booths or buildings, stained green or some other uniform tone, the festival buildings would present a very attractive picture. These buildings could be planned in "knocked down" style so that they could easily be taken to pieces and stored for a similar event in the year following. While the main exhibits of livestock, agricultural and domestic products would probably be arranged in the park, there would also be a great deal of space available on the street pavement adjoining the walks. Long tables there could be arranged accessible from both sides and protected with inexpensive roofs, useful in case of rain.

H. Jay Rodgers, as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, had the greater part of the work in planning and carrying into effect the vast amount of details. Mr. Rodgers was untiring in his efforts and that there is a widespread feeling in favor of organizing along more permanent lines is the best evidence of the general opinion of this year's festival. It is well worth the time and thought of Jacksonville business men to plan and organize for the 1917 festival and to begin the work now.

Husband Renounces Will and Seeks Share of Property Allowed by Law

A suit in partition has been filed in the circuit court by John B. Ratliff against E. E. Crabtree as administrator et al. The bill which was filed by Mr. Ratliff's attorney, Judge E. P. Brockhouse, calls for a division of 122 acres of land lying in the vicinity of Concord and which belonged to the estate of the late Mrs. Mary J. Ratliff. By the terms of Mrs. Ratliff's will she divided her estate among her brothers, directing that one of them pay to her husband $1500 which she set forth she owed. Mr. Ratliff has entered in the county court notice of his renunciation of the will. The suit in partition has been filed, and as previously noted, one brother of Mrs. Ratliff has filed suit to have the will set aside. If the will is set aside Mr. Ratliff will secure a half interest in the real and personal property, together with dower and the right of homestead. If the will is held good, because of his renunciation he will receive a half interest in the real and personal property and his dower rights. Along with notice of renunciation a claim was filed by Mr. Ratliff against the estate for $3,385, setting forth that this was the amount of the indebtedness and not $1,500 as stated in the will.

WOMAN'S CLUB HEARS REPORT OF BIENNIAL

MISS ANNIE HINRICHSSEN GIVES
STORY OF EXPERIENCES

General Federation Now a Much More Democratic Body, Says Miss Hinrichsen, Delegate from the Jacksonville Club—The Program for Year—Many Attend Luncheon at Christian Church.

Two hundred and twenty-five women sat down Saturday afternoon to the annual luncheon of the Jacksonville Woman's club, beginning in auspicious manner the work of a new club year. The luncheon was served at 1:30 o'clock in the dining hall of Central Christian church. Mrs. J. K. C. Pierson, President of the club, was in the chair and Miss Annie Hinrichsen, inspector of institutions for the State Charities' commission, was speaker of the afternoon. Miss Hinrichsen brought a highly interesting report from the biennial meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs which was held in New York City last May.

A novel feature of the event was the presentation of an oaken gavel by Mrs. E. C. Lambert, first president of the club to all succeeding occupants of the chair. The gavel was received on behalf of the club by Mrs. Pierson. The gavel was made by Russel McPhail, student in the high school manual training department and a pupil of Miss Anna G. Brown.

Banquet Well Served

There were twenty-six tables, each prettily decorated with flowers. The Pastoral Helpers, under direction of Mrs. J. T. King, prepared the repast, which proved ample and of good quality. Women of the Domestic Science Round Table supervised the serving. The hostesses by tables were:

Miss Fay Rodgers and Mrs. Harry Clement.

Miss Helen Doying and Mrs. John Cherry.

was spoken by Mrs. F. B. Madden. Immediately after the luncheon the president gave brief words of greeting and the presentation of the gavel was made. Miss Clara C. Echoes of the Biennial

In reviewing "Echoes of the Biennial" Miss Hinrichsen referred to a few of the unpleasant things which characterized the sessions. She went as a representative of a Chicago newspaper and before arrival of her credentials as a club delegate, suffered treatment very discourteous, and, with another newspaperwoman, was denied admittance to the convention hall. Miss Hinrichsen paid a high tribute to the new president, Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles of California. She told of a recent visit to Montreal when women of the city were perfecting organization to release men for patriotic service by going themselves into the trades and industries.

"This biennial will probably go down in history as one of the most significant of the General Federation," Miss Hinrichsen said. "It will be remembered as the Declaration of Independence biennial when the rank and file of the women demanded and secured state representation on the general board. We have been represented heretofore by fifteen directors. Mrs. Frederick A. Dow, Mrs. George Bass, Mrs. George W. Plummer, all of Chicago, were the women who secured the state representation for the clubs and secured it against the protests of the president, Mrs. Pennybacker. Each state in the union now has a representative on the board and consequently a voice in all affairs of the General Federation."

A Power for Good

In the course of her address of greeting Mrs. Pierson referred the influence for good which women of a community may bring to bear. She spoke of the membership goal 400 by the next May breakfast, calling attention to the fact that 76 of these have already been added. She said in part:

"We are of the firm conviction that a Woman's Club should be a great power for good in any locality. "Prove the worth of our Woman's Club by creating a true community spirit under its guidance. It was this spirit that made us ready to help the Chamber of Commerce boost for the "Home Coming" week or "Festival" and we have, as you know, kept open house all week at the "Woman's Rest Tent."

"The interest shown by the public in this rest room, has proven once more that Jacksonville should have a permanent rest room, and we are glad that the U. C. T. Woman's Club has started the ball rolling to create an interest in this direction. "There is another interest which we should get back of, and boost, and that is to help further the interest in the Glacklin tax, which we hope to see carried in November. SECOND KAPLAN TRIAL TO BEGIN MONDAY

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 14.—The second trial of David Kaplan with complicity in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building six years ago, is scheduled to begin in the superior court here Monday. In the previous trial last May the jury was unable to agree on a verdict. It was reported at the time that the jurors stood seven for conviction and five for acquittal. The trial lasted more than a month.

Kaplan is specifically charged with the murder of Charles Hagerty, whose body was identified more certainly than that of other victims of the explosion that wrecked the Times building here Oct. 1, 1910. It was on this same charge that James B. McNamara received a sentence of life imprisonment in 1911, and Mathew A. Schmidt, convicted Dec. 29 last, was given a similar sentence. John J. McNamara, former secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, who was charged jointly with James B. McNamara, was allowed to plead guilty to causing an explosion at the Llewellyn Iron Works, Dec. 24, 1910, and was sentenced to fifteen years at San Quentin. The McNamaras now are serving their terms.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Crabtree and Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Waddell have returned from a ten days automobile trip which took them to Danville, Mudlavia, and Indianapolis.

BURLINGTON WAY MEN TO ST. LOUIS MEET

Will Confer With Auto Club Members—Meeting at Alton Also—Road to Burlington Needs Dragging at Some Points.

This afternoon officials of the Burlington Way Good Roads association will leave for St. Louis to attend a luncheon to be given by the St. Louis Auto club. At this meeting preliminary steps for the establishment of the Burlington Way trail from St. Louis to New Orleans will be taken. W. H. Holsteen of Burlington, Iowa, supervisor of the Burlington Way in his state, was in Jacksonville yesterday to make an address on good roads. He came from his home city in his automobile and will leave for St. Louis this afternoon.

Accompanying him will be Carl H. Weber, president of the association, E. A. Nissen of Iowa City, secretary, and Ray N. Pearce, editor of the White Hall Republican. Mayor W. R. Turnbull of Waverly also will attend the St. Louis conference, accompanied by H. C. Wilhite of Greenfield, chairman of the promotion and extension department of the Burlington Way, and Ben J. James, secretary of the Springfield division. In addition to the luncheon and conference in St. Louis the Burlington Way men will attend an evening meeting with the Alton Commercial club, when affairs relating to the way will be considered.

W. H. Holsteen, secretary of the Burlington Auto club and a good roads enthusiast, was in Jacksonville yesterday to make an address in connection with the Fall Festival. Mr. Holsteen, who made the journey from Burlington in an automobile via the parent trail of the Burlington Way, reported that the poles along the route have all been painted and the marking is now complete. The condition of the road bed is not entirely satisfactory and would be greatly improved by dragging, especially after rains. E. A. Nissen, secretary of the Burlington Way association, was also in the city to make an address at the festival.

A meeting was held in Joliet recently by the vice presidents and supervisors of the Bloomington-Joliet-Chicago division, when it was decided to make an assessment of $6 per mile and that each town should pay for the mileage half of the distance to the next town either way on the trail. This will meet the cost of painting of poles, official and danger signs and will also pay the annual association dues from each town and leave a balance of $200 in the treasury.

Jeffery Touring Car Makes Another Big Record—Scores Under Most Severe Conditions on 101 Mile Trip.

From Denver comes the news of still another triumph of the new Jeffery Six, the car with the vibrationless motor. Its latest feat was the smashing of all stock touring car records from Denver to the top of Pike's Peak, a distance of 104 miles. The drive to the toll gate on the peak was made in 2 hours and 35 minutes. From there to the crest, a fraction over 17 miles, was covered in 48 minutes.

Commenting on the Jeffery's showing, the Rocky Mountain News observes:

"The racing cars that entered in the Penrose trophy race made their climb from the starting point, which is over five miles shorter than from the tollgate where the Jeffery was timed from, in twenty minutes and a trifle over fifty five seconds. The Jeffery made the same course as racing cars in thirty four minutes and ten seconds."

"When it is considered that this was a big touring car with the windshield and top up, that the racing cars were stripped of the very last ounce of weight, the performance of the Jeffery is remarkable."

The car's dizzy ascent took in all kinds of roads and driving conditions and an exceedingly wide variance of temperature. The maximum grade of 10 1/2 per cent doesn't seem difficult, it must be considered that the car had to negotiate this grade for almost ten miles without let up. Not once did the Jeffery resort to low gear or stop for water, the motor's highest temperature being 170 degrees.

The average temperature of the day, as reported by the Denver United States weather bureau, was 65 degrees. The maximum was 81 and the lowest was 49 degrees. Owing to the car's newness, and to the fact that it carried full touring equipment, the motor wasn't at any time crowded to its limit. The car was received from the Nash factory by the Maxwell-Chamberlain Motor company, Jeffery dealers in Denver, just two days before the test was staged.

FINAL FESTIVAL DAY BROUGHT CROWD

Attendance Largest of the Week—Varied Program of General Interest—Band Concert and Suffrage Program at Night.

The closing day of the Fall Festival brought the record attendance of the week. The normal Saturday crowd was greatly increased by visitors from all the country surrounding. Saturday had been designated good roads, farmers and traveling men's day and so interests at once combined and diversified were represented.

The addresses on good roads were made by W. H. Holsteen of Burlington, Iowa, and A. E. Nissen, of Iowa City, both officers of the Burlington Way association. Their addresses while giving some facts about the Burlington Way, in which they are so greatly interested, were much broader in scope and some of the important phases of good roads were dwelt upon. Both of the speakers believe that while hard roads have their place, that oiling and dragging are the principal things that will result in good roads now, and thus be of benefit to the present generation.

Some facts were given to show how road conditions affect farm costs and thus are of interest to all consumers. Mr. Nissen in talking about the Burlington Way expressed the hope that this year the Burlington Way can be oiled for its entire distance. There is a great deal of sentiment now for this work and if the proper spirit of co-operation develops the oiling will be done in 1917.

Displays Interested All
The display of farming implements was considerably increased Saturday and farmers were greatly interested in power machinery kept in operation for their information.

The U. C. T. country store was liberally patronized, as it has been on the other days of the week, and the traveling men were well pleased with their success. There were many visitors at the women's tent and the dairy exhibit and poultry show continued to be objects of great interest.

The Merced band furnished the musical program for the day and the musicians received many words of commendation. In the evening the band boys at the suggestion of Secretary Nissen of the Burlington Way association, put on a feature which was greatly enjoyed. After the band concert Mr. Nissen and Mr. Holsteen engaged in a debate of woman's suffrage which the crowd found mighty interesting and before it closed it developed that both of the debaters were strongly in favor of equal rights. Mr. Nissen then entertained the crowd by a general talk in which he told a number of good stories and gave some verses worth remembering.

Suffrage Parade
By agreement members of the band had arrayed themselves in woman's dresses and led by Mr. Nissen they paraded the square and serenaded the Journal office and several business houses.

The complete Merced band includes thirty pieces and F. C. Yeck is the leader. The thirteen who were here for the concert program came from Mercedia in automobiles. The instrumentation of the suffrage band was as follows:

COUNTY COURT FINDINGS

ARE UPHOLD
Several Morgan county cases have been passed upon by the appellate court now in session at Springfield, affirming the judgment of the lower court. One of the cases was that of Earl Hardy, who under the ruling of the appellate court will now be compelled to serve out his term of thirty days in jail and pay a fine of $100 and costs.

Another case passed upon was that of the people vs. Kate Haxton. The attorneys for the defendant maintained that she was a poor person and unable to pay the fine imposed and was in poor health and not able to undergo the confinement of prison life, and that therefore her sentence for bootlegging should be stayed. The ruling of the county court was against the defendant and this ruling was upheld by the higher court.

ernments for their part entirely share this view. They are sincerely endeavoring to avoid any encroachment on the legitimate exercise of the rights of inoffensive neutral commerce thru the exercise of their own belligerent rights. But by endeavoring to avoid any on their belligerent rights in exercising on the high seas the control recognized by international law as accorded to them in order to prevent all transport destined to furnish assistance to their enemy in the conduct of the war and to maintain his resistance.

"The right of the United States as a neutral power cannot in their opinion include that of protection given by the federal government to dispatches, parcels, correspondence or communications of whatever nature they may be, which have a hostile character, manifest or disguised and a hostile destination, direct or indirect, such communication can only be carried on by private American citizens at their private risk and peril. This is the very principle which has been expressly cited by the President of the United States in his proclamations of neutrality.

"Finally if any faults, abuses or serious mistakes, alleged to have been committed by the Allied authorities responsible for the examination of mails are brought to the attention of the governments of France and Great Britain the latter will be prepared as they have always been to determine the responsibility and to take the requisite measures in conformity with the principles of law and justice from which it is not and never has been their intention to depart."

The combination coal, wood and gas Range without too much mechanism; no levers to turn or twist—to get out of whack or be mis-handled.

It is the simplicity of the Majestic Combination that has made it so popular. Not a thing to change in your oven—just turn on the gas. Can be attached to your own Majestic and heat your reservoir (if its on the back end of your range.)

$7.50

This gas attachment on a new Range is $7.50. On an old Range $7.50 plus the time of attaching.

Renowned Gas Saver Burner

Mixes 40 to 50 volumes of air with one volume of Gas.

REMEMBER—only three gas burners used to heat the entire top, oven and reservoir, and they burn less gas than the top burners only of an ordinary gas Range. The same burners that heat the top heat the oven and reservoir.

Many of the Jacksonville friends of Reverend R. F. Thrapp, for a number of years pastor of Central Christian church here, will be surprised by the announcement of his recent marriage. A Los Angeles paper received by J. T. Osborne contains a notice of the wedding. Dr. Thrapp's marriage to Miss Clara Dixon occurred at the bride's home, 824 South Ardmore street, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. E. TRACTOR DOES GOOD WORK FOR HEMBROUGH Allwork a Part of Hall Bros. Exhibit—J. C. Lair Tells What Has Been Done.

One of the attractions during the festival which called forth a great deal of interest from farmers was the tractor shown by Hall Bros. It was an Allwork 25 horse power tractor which the firm sold early this year to E. R. Hembrough and which has been in use on his farm since that time. The tractor has been operated all the time by J. C. Lair who had no previous experience with machinery of that class. Mr. Lair said he had never experienced any trouble with the tractor and that there had been no expense for repairs whatever.

The tractor consumes gasoline or coal oil and the latter has been used on the Hembrough farm. It has been found to take about 2 1-2 gallons of coal oil for plowing an acre. With this tractor Mr. Lair broke 119 acres for corn, the tractor pulling three 14 inch plows and a harrow and the rate of plowing was about an acre an hour. Later on the tractor was used for cutting 200 acres of small grain and with an 8 foot binder it was possible to average 20 acres a day. By using 8 horses, 4 at a time, a man can cut about 8 acres a day. The machine has been used for double disc, running an ensilage cutter and some other work and the opinion of Mr. Hembrough and Mr. Lair after these months in use, is that this tractor readily takes the place of eight head of horses.

ILLINOIS CONTINUES CHAMPIONSHIP MARCH

PUSH LOMBARD BY WAYSIDE 26 TO 7.

Blue and White Play Brilliant Game and Were Never in Danger—Game Marred by Roughness on Part of Lombard—Game Long and Drawn Out.

(By Fred Blum.)

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 15.—(Special)—In a long drawn out contest of two and one half hours Illinois crushed Lombard today, 26 to 7. The game was marred by repeated acts of unnecessary roughness on the part of the Lombard players and by the inefficiency of the officials provided by the Lombard management. The playing was hard fought, Lombard fought desperately but the Illinois offense was too powerful to be defeated and only once was Lombard able to pierce the strong Illinois defense.

Lombard kicked to Illinois. Lombard held for downs and carried the ball to Illinois' eight yard line. Illinois stiffened and on an attempted forward pass on the fourth down Redman smothered the play for a loss of 15 yards.

Taking the ball on downs Illinois marched straight across the field for a touchdown by Jones. Frisbee missed an easy goal. Score six to nothing. At the end of the first quarter Illinois had the ball on Lombard's 25 yard line.

In the second quarter Lombard took the ball on downs on their own 5 yard line. Conklin and Valentine broke thru Lombard's line and blocked Jackson's punt. Thiebaud grabbed the ball and dashed across the goal line with Conklin and Valentine giving him fine rear guard interference. While lying on the ground with the ball behind the Lombard goal line a Lombard player uselessly and with seeming deliberation unnecessarily roughed Thiebaud so that he later was compelled to leave the game in favor of Sooy. Frisbee kicked goal. Score end of half 13 to 0.

In the third quarter Lombard received the kickoff and carried the ball to Illinois' 10 yard line where Illinois held for downs and punted. Illinois forced Lombard to punt. Wilson carried the punt back for a long gain. Mitchell reeled off 20 yards and Illinois was awarded 15 yards more when a Lombard player attempted to rough Mitchell at the end of his long run. Wilson, Helms and Jones carried the ball to the four yard line where on fourth down Mitchell again was called and carried the ball over the line with Lombard players climbing all over him. Conklin kicked goal. Score 20 to 0.

Lombard received, Illinois held and Lombard punted. Illinois then marched up the field with Wilson, Jones and Helms carrying the ball. Wilson shot a pass of 25 yards to Frisbee who raced 15 more for a touchdown. Frisbee missed goal. Score 26 to 0.

After the next kickoff the Illinois' defense cracked for a short time. Jackson received a short pass and ran 40 yards for a score. He kicked goal. Score 26 to 7.

With renewed dash the Illinois team received the kickoff and tore Lombard to shreds until Jones dove over for a touchdown just as time was called. The referee refused to allow the score on the ground that time was up before the play which scored the touchdown was started, although no whistle was blown by anyone to stop play. Lombard's crumples were all in the game. Jackson was a marked man and accomplished little. Illinois superb team work and stonewall defense featured the game. Rendleman, Mitchell, Zink, Valentine, Thiebaud, Conklin, Capt. Frisbee, Wilson, Pierce, Whittle, Jones featured in Illinois' playing. Sooy substituted for Thiebaud and Helms for Whittle.

ROOSEVELT TO MINERS AT WILKESBARRE

Former President Goes to Scene
of Old Labor Trouble

Tells Men That Methods Used Thru
Adamson Bill In Avoiding Strike
Were Just Opposite to Those He Employed As President—Wilson's
Plan Fraught With Danger to Labor.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 14.—Inspired by the recollection of his part in settling the great coal strike of 1902 Wilkesbarre, center of the anthracite coal fields gave Theodore Roosevelt an enthusiastic reception. From the moment he reached the city until the opening of a mass meeting in 5th Regiment Armory he was beset by an enthusiastic throng that lined the streets over which he passed, that clamored for admittance to his hotel and that flowed in a steady stream, into the big building, where he spoke.

An hour before the scheduled opening the armory was packed with several thousand standing.

Col. Roosevelt's speech was mainly a criticism of President Wilson's attitude on the eight-hour-day for the railroad brotherhoods and the manner of passage of the Adamson Law thru congress. He declared arbitration would have been the proper method of averting the threatened strike of railway employees and instanced the successful application of this principle in 1902 when he settled the anthracite coal strike.

Col. Roosevelt said in part:

Recalls Anthracite Strike
"I have accepted the invitation to come to Wilkesbarre to discuss the Adamson law, because Wilkesbarre is the headquarters of the great industry in connection with which I myself as President was brought into close and intimate touch with the labor movement in this country. It what I have to say is of any value it must be not only because it represents what in the abstract is right, but also because in the concrete I applied, in actual practice, when I had power, the principles which I criticize Mr. Wilson for not applying now. Therefore, I wish to recapitulate to you just what occurred in connection with the anthracite coal strike and to contrast it with what Mr. Wilson has done in connection with the law for the increase of wages on railroads.

"At the outset, I wish to express my very hearty admiration for the Brotherhoods. I am proud of the fact that I am an honorary member of one of them. While I held public office I found myself in their demands, because these demands were right. But now they have demanded legislation raising their wages to be taken without investigation and without the exercise of that form of judgment shown by a competent arbitration commission; and such a demand is wrong, and I stood against it because it is wrong, exactly as I have stood against the demands of bankers and lawyers, and mine-owners and railroad presidents when they were wrong. I believe in labor unions. I am proud that I am myself an honorary member of a labor union. But I believe first of all in the Union to which all of us belong, the union of all the people of the whole United States.

"I ask you to look back only two short years. Mr. Wilson was inaugurated as President three years ago last Spring. He and his party immediately passed a low tariff law. Under it Government receipts fell off so alarmingly that there was a great deficit which had to be met by a special tax. This was later called a war tax; but it was not due to the war at all the decrease in receipts was prior to the war, it was a deficiency tax, pure and simple. As some one pointed out at the time, Canada had a war with no tax; whereas we had a tax with no war. It was purely a deficiency tax.

Early Days of Administration

"During the first eighteen months of this Administration the national business went to pieces, the sidings on the railroads were jammed with empty cars, and the number of employed in every great industry grew to appalling dimensions. I speak here of what I personally know; for less than two years ago I had to take an active part in New York in measures to relieve the unemployed. I then saw municipal lodging houses crowded to overflowing with people desirous of working, who could not get any work, and who did not have enough money to pay for the poorest lodging or the cheapest

RUSHVILLE CRUSHED BY JACKSONVILLE HIGH

MEET DEFEAT AT HANDS OF LOCAL LADS 14 TO 6

Red and White Come Back Strong on Second Half After Visitors Score First Touchdown—Most of Play During Game in Rushville's Territory.

In one of the hardest games of the season Jacksonville high school won from Rushville high school on Illinois field Saturday afternoon by a score of 14 to 6. The teams were evenly matched and Rushville made the first touchdown in the second period and had the locals beat by that score at the end of the first half.

Jacksonville, however, came back in the second half and by playing smashing football scored two touchdowns and kicked both goals. When the final whistle blew Rushville had carried the ball to Jacksonville's third yard line and were trying hard to push it over.

The score does not show the relative strength of the two teams. While Rushville made the first touchdown they were nearly always on the defensive. Nearly all of the playing was done in Rushville's territory and Jacksonville made many gains only to lose the ball on downs or thru fumbles.

For Jacksonville the two Reynolds, Hull, Green, Ferguson and Pirke played great football. Time and again they carried the ball for big gains and were brilliant on the defense. The line held remarkably well considering that they were out-weighted greatly. For Rushville Eslinger was the bright particular star. He is one of the best high school players seen here for some time and without him the Rushville team would not do so much.

First Period
Jacksonville kicked to Rushville and the ball was carried back five yards. Rushville tried a pass that failed and then circled left end for a ten yard gain. Rushville then made five yards thru the line. Two forward passes failed and the ball went to Jacksonville in the center of the field.

On three line plays Jacksonville made first down. Two more line plays gave another first down. Jacksonville carried the ball to Rushville's 15 yard line where they were penalized for offside. Jacksonville tried a drop kick and the ball went to Rushville and was put in play on the 20 yard line. Rushville failed on a forward pass and then made nine yards on an end run. Jacksonville held on the 25 yard line. Jacksonville was penalized for holding and then fumbled the ball and Rushville recovered on her 49 yard line. Rushville was unable to gain and the ball went to Jacksonville in the center of the field as time was called for the quarter.

Second Period
Jacksonville tried the line and end runs and lost the ball on downs. Rushville made small gain thru the line and then worked a forward pass for 29 yards. Rushville again attacked Jacksonville's line but failed to gain and another forward pass netted 20 yards putting the ball on Jacksonville's ten yard line. Rushville then pushed the ball over for their only score. The kickoff failed. Score Jacksonville 0, Rushville 6.

Rushville kicked to Jacksonville and downed the ball on the 15 yard line. Homer Reynolds made a run around right end for 30 yards. King and Howard Reynolds made four yards and Homer Reynolds made first down. Jacksonville carried the ball down to Rushville's 20 yard line where Rushville got the ball on downs. Rushville made about nine yards and Jacksonville held. The Reynolds Brothers made first down when time was called for the first half.

Third Period
Reeve went in at quarter in place of Green. Rushville kicked to Jacksonville, Pirke got away with a forward pass for a touchdown but the ball was brought back for offside. Ferguson then circled the end for fifteen yards. Jacksonville then made first down on end runs and line bucks. Jacksonville fumbled and Hull recovered the ball. Pirke received a forward pass and ran thirty yards for a touchdown. Hull kicked goal. Score, Jacksonville 7, Rushville 6.

Jacksonville kicked to Rushville, and downed the ball on Rushville's 20 yard line. Howard Reynolds intercepted a forward pass. Jacksonville tried the line and end runs for first down. Howard Reynolds got around the end for twenty yards and put the ball on Rushville's five yard line. On the next play Homer Reynolds went thru tackle for a touchdown. Hull kicked goal. CHICAGO TRIUMPHS OVER INDIANA U.
Practically Eliminates Indiana From Championship Race — Colgate

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 14.—The University of Chicago football eleven triumphed over Indiana University in the first game of the "big nine" season here today, winning by a score of 22 to 0. The defeat practically eliminates Indiana from the championship race.

Chicago played a much improved game over its exhibition of a week ago and tore ragged holes in Indiana's line for steady gains.

Deerhart, one of Indiana's stars, was severely injured near the end of the fourth period that he had to be carried off the field. The Indiana team was accompanied by more than six hundred rooters, who made the trip on a special train.

Colgate 15; Illinois 3.
Champaign, Ill., Oct. 14.—Colgate won from Illinois fifteen to three today in one of the speediest exhibitions ever seen on Illinois Field. Colgate scored on place kick by West in first quarter, touchdown by Spencer in second and by Hub-bard just before the game ended.

Illinois' lone score was made on place kick by Macomber in fourth. Colgate's interference was superior. Illinois' inability lay in inability to work forward pass. Illinois showed clever offense during second half.

Yale 12; Lehigh 0.
New Haven, Conn., Oct. 14.—Yale downed Lehigh today 12 to 0 in a hard fought game, the Pennsylvanians giving the Blue the hardest kind of opposition. The feature was a sensational 65 yard end run thru a broken field for a touchdown by Legore. Half a dozen Lehigh players tackled him but he shook them off. Bingham made Yale's other touchdown on a fifteen yard plunge thru tackle. Neither goal was kicked. Legore missed two attempted field goals.

Howard 21; North Carolina 0.
Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 14.—A football eleven from the University of North Carolina coached by a Harvard graduate and equipped with Harvard plays was no match for the Crimson team today and they lost 21 to 0. It was an exhibition of Harvard's secondary strength, as six reserves were called upon to fill the places of regulars injured in the game that Harvard lost to Tufts last week.

Michigan 26; Mount Union 0.
Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 14.—Michigan's powerful machine crushed the Mount Union College football eleven twenty six to nothing in a snappy game here this afternoon. The Wolverines scored a touchdown in each period and the visitors were on the defense most of the time. Capt. Maubetsch, Nieman, Smith and Brasel did the scoring. In the last period, Brasel intercepted a forward pass and sprinted 75 yards for a touchdown.

Iowa Aggies 13; Kansas 0.
Ames, Ia., Oct. 14.—Completely outplaying their opponents in every period of the game save the second, the Iowa State College of Agriculture football team today defeated the Kansas University eleven on Ames field by a score of 13 to 0.

The feature play of the contests came in the third quarter when Andrews took a fifteen yard forward pass from Steve and ran 45 yards thru the Kansas team for a touchdown.

HUSBAND SAVED HIS WIFE
Stopped Most Terrible Suffering by Getting Her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Denison, Texas.—"After my little girl was born two years ago I began suffering with female trouble and could hardly do my work. I was very nervous but just kept dragging on until last summer when I got where I could not do my work. I would have a chill every day and hot flashes and dizzy spells and my head would almost burst. I got where I was almost a walking skeleton and life was a burden to me until one day my husband's step-sister told me that if he did not do something for me I would not last long and told him to get my medicine. So he got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and after taking the first three doses I began to improve. I continued its use, and I have never had any female trouble since. I feel that I owe my life to you and your remedies. They did for me what doctors could not do and I will always praise it wherever I go."—Mrs. G. O. LOWERY, 419 W. Monterey Street, Denison, Texas.

If you are suffering from any form of female ills, get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and commence the treatment without delay.

COLLEGE OF MUSIC

Mr. Stearns' series of Vesper Organ Recitals began auspiciously last Sunday afternoon. The attendance was somewhat smaller than usual, owing to the severe shower just at the hour of the concert. The next recital will be in November.

Miss Lazelle's annual voice recital will be next in this season's series of faculty recitals, at 1. W. C. Miss Lazelle will be heard in an interesting and varied program, comprising a group of old songs and arias, a group of modern German songs, one of modern English and one of modern German. Mr. Jensen will act as accompanist for Miss Lazelle. The recital by the intermediate students in the College of Music on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 11, was a very creditable representation of the work in this grade. There was a good attendance of students from the school and friends from the town. The following is the program in detail:

Rainbows Hawley
Enid Hubbs
Blackbirds Song Scott
Veronica Davis
The Song of the Brook Lack Roxie Poland
Little House O' Dreams Metcalf
Helen Norris
Romanze Grunfeld
Veronica Davis
Idyl MacDowell
Flower Rain Schneider
Grace Davis

Mr. Stearns is opening a course in the aesthetics of music, one hour a week, meeting Tuesday evenings at 8:00 o'clock, in the chapel. This is open to all students whether in the College of Music or the College of Liberal Arts. There will be discussions of the general artistic and aesthetic basis of music. Particular attention will be paid to the various concert programs of the winter and an effort will be made to have the course supply a basis for intelligent listening to music on the part of those that attend. There will be illustrations on the violin, organ, piano, piano and violin, and voice.

The College Madrigal Club, the large chorus of the College, numbering between fifty and sixty voices, all carefully chosen, organized on Wednesday evening and planned for the year's work. Many valuable additions to the chorus were noted and the work of the year promises to be on an exceedingly high plane. The Club will make at least two public appearances. At the Vesper concert in December, the Club will sing a number of traditional Christmas carols of the various nations and some time after Christmas, the Club will be heard in a concert with the orchestra, presenting some large work for women's voices.

Miss Mildred Applebee, who received her certificate in Public School Music last year, has been appointed teacher of Public School in the schools at Barry. No better example of the grade work done by this department could be afforded than the large number of graduates holding positions.

REGISTRATION DAY.

Voters should remember that there are two registration days, October 17 and 31. Voters should see that their names are on the poll books and thus save a great deal of annoyance on election day. The laws of registration apply just the same to women as to men voters and women who expect to cast their ballots and help in the selection of the next president of the United States should not fail to register.

ILLINOIS WOMAN'S COLLEGE NOTES

Weather permitting, the annual College picnic, given by Dr. and Mrs. Pitner for the students of the College, will be held on the lawn, Fairview, Monday, October 16. This is an annual custom by Dr. and Mrs. Pitner, and one that is looked forward to with pleasant anticipation by the students and faculty.

Dr. Harker attended the meeting of the Kansas City society, which was held there Thursday, October 12. Twenty-one of the former students and graduates of the College were present at the luncheon. At the conclusion of the banquet, among other speakers, Dr. Claudius B. Spencer, editor of the Central Christian Advocate, addressed the society. He was followed by President Harker and several members of the organization. A most delightful time was enjoyed by all. The Kansas City Society is flourishing and is doing good work.

The Chicago Society will hold their annual meeting at the LaSalle Hotel on October 21.

President Harker is spending Sunday in Wichita, Kansas, helping in the campaign for Southwestern College, which is located at this city. The following Saturday, Sunday and Monday he expects to be in and around Galesburg, assisting in the Hedding College campaign.

The large Freshman class is rapidly becoming organized and getting acquainted. On Monday, October 9, they enjoyed a delightful picnic on the College campus. The formal organization of the class will take place near the beginning of the second semester.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON (by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.) Oct. 15th, 1916 (All Rights Reserved)

The Appeal to Caesar. Acts 25. Golden ext: It is enough for the disciple that he be as his teacher, and the servant as his lord. Matt. 10:25.

1. Verses 1-5: What was the plot the high priest tried to form, with which to destroy Paul?

2. Which and why, according to history, have been the vilest liars and all around knaves, High Priests without religion, or politicians without moral principle?

3. Which is the better, or worse, and why, a professed religious man who is dishonest in his actions, or a worldly man who will not stoop to an admittedly mean thing (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

4. Verses 1-5. Festus was a Roman, the High Priest a Jew, which was the better man, and why?

5. To what extent is it fair to judge of a religion by its professors taking this incident with others, as the basis of your opinion?

6. Verses 6, 7. How is it that so called "Holy Wars" and sectarian controversies are very much more cruel, and bitter, than other wars and other controversies?

7. Why did the Jews hate Paul so that they wanted to destroy him either with, or without legal process?

8. Verses 8-12. When a judge is convinced of the innocence of a prisoner, as Festus evidently was of that of Paul, and does not discharge him for political considerations, how would you characterize him?

9. Paul evidently appealed to Caesar for fear Festus would send him to Jerusalem for trial, why would you say, or not, that his fear was well founded?

10. If Paul had pressed his motion for immediate discharge, what would you consider his chances would have been for winning his case? (See Acts 26:32.)

11. Verses 8-12. Even if Festus had given his verdict to send Paul to Jerusalem, why could not Paul then have appealed to Caesar on the ground of his Roman citizenship, and have demanded to be sent to Rome for trial?

12. Verse 13. Kings go a long way to salute kings, and other persons in official positions, what would be the effect upon the community if men and women of all

13. Verses 14-21. We must admire Festus' clear statement of the facts to King Agrippa, but what do the same facts indicate of the character of Festus?

14. Verses 14-21. To what extent is it a guarantee of a noble character that a man is in a prominent position and is a lucid speaker?

15. Which are the better judges of right, and wrong, and most capable of rendering a just judgment, worldly men, or church members without religion?

16. Why is it that the religious leaders of the Jews were anxious to put Paul to death without trial, while Festus a secular officer of Rome would not condemn him without proof of his guilt?

17. Verse 22. What motives probably influenced Agrippa to want to hear Paul? (See Acts 26:28.)

18. Knowing what you do of Paul, and his preaching, how do you account for the murderous hatred of the leaders of the Jews against him?

19. Is there any such spirit in any modern or present day ecclesiastical body, as animated the Jews against Paul? If so, please specify.

20. In what way do you consider that the words of Festus, to King Agrippa, when introducing the case of Paul, showed a true and noble spirit?

IN MEMORY OF THE LATE MRS. W. D. SANDERS

The following tribute to the life and character of the late Mrs. Wm. D. Sanders was written by her former pastor, Rev. Leonidas H. Davis in anticipation that he would be present to conduct the services at her funeral. Finding that circumstances prevented his being present at the funeral he sent the manuscript to the family who, thinking that the many friends of Mrs. Sanders and Mr. Davis would be pleased to read these words of appreciation have allowed us to publish them—

In Loving Memory of My Dear Friend, Mrs. W. D. Sanders

We are gathered here this afternoon in this hospitable home, which for so many years sheltered one of the choicest lives, one we all loved, whose life of tender love and of unselfish service has been translated to a larger place of growth and of usefulness. Some think of her today as a neighbor—but she was no ordinary neighbor. Some think of her as a friend—but she was no ordinary friend—she was the dearest and truest of friends. In our home we thought of her as our second mother. At such times as this it is difficult for us to express our deepest and best thoughts—our deepest and best love. Somehow we feel it all but cannot express it. Her life was simple and yet its very simplicity was its charm and greatness. Her life was unselfish, sympathetic, broad minded, interested in all that pertained to the community and the great life of the world, kindly to a fault, and generous beyond measure. If these walls could speak, they would tell the story of self-forgetful, flowing service. Her children and her grandchildren and other generations will rise and call her blessed.

If the numbered and the unnumbered homes in our community could speak today they would tell of thoughtfulness and benevolence known only to her and to them. She had such a beautiful, wonderful way of doing things—so unconsciously for others.

If the church could speak it would tell of her loyalty and love thru many, many years. The church was second only to her home—what she gave the one she gave the other, loving devotion. She was a minister's wife and gave to the church of her choice what only a minister's wife can give.

This house will be to me and mine—so long as it stands—a holy place. Here I came to minister but by reason of what she was and what she said I was ministered unto. Here we talked by the fire-place, as the shadows lingered, of the big things of life—things too sacred to be mentioned here.

Such a life in all its beauty and strength has somewhere its own sufficient explanation. It was not far to find. It was not of earth. It was no mere human flower. She loved the beautiful, the beautiful things in nature; hence her wonderful garden—the beautiful things in life; hence her home—life and her countless friends; the beautiful things in character and religion; hence her devotion to the best. She loved the Old Book for it always had for her a divine message and a divine voice. Her faith laid hold of the everlasting things—they were real to her. Her love ran out strongly to her Master—to the circle of her own friends—to the larger circle of friends in the world. It always seemed to me that she loved everybody and everybody loved her. Her hope was strong—it was an anchor to her soul.

We said in our home only the other day, when we had a letter from

$1000 In Prizes

WE want your opinion of the New Edison, the instrument which the New York Globe calls "the phonograph with a soul."

Thomas A. Edison has spent over $2,000,000 in research work in acoustics and chemistry to produce this wonderful new instrument.

The music critics of more than two hundred of America's leading newspapers have heard this instrument in direct comparison with living singers and instrumentalists, and admit that their trained ears are unable to distinguish the original music from Edison's Re-Creation of it by means of this wonderful new invention.

wants your opinion

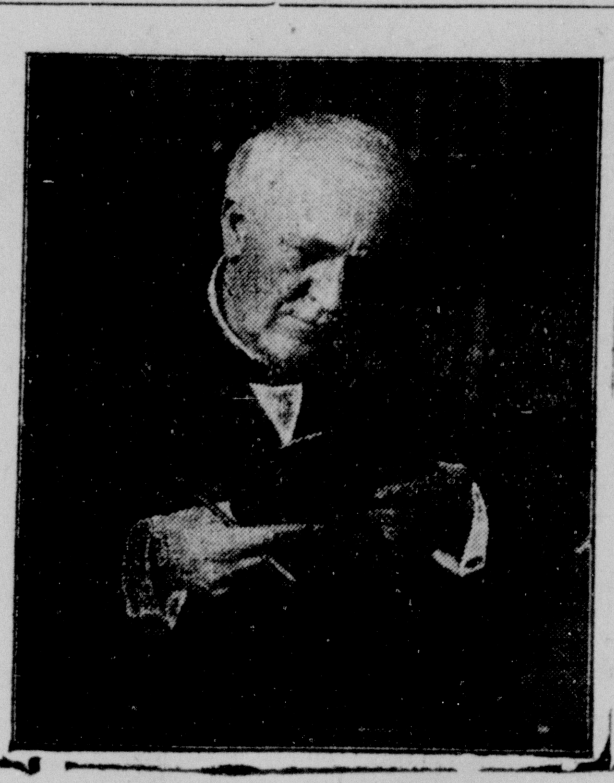

HE has the opinions of the music critics, but he made the New Edison for the American home, and he wants your opinion. Accordingly the Edison Company has arranged a prize contest for the best opinions about the New Edison written by people who hear it in their homes.

$500 is to be paid for the best opinion.

$200 for the second.

$100 for the third.

In addition, there is a Consolation Contest in which the prizes aggregate $200. Opinions which do not win prizes, but which nevertheless are considered suitable for publication will be purchased at 10c per word. No opinion should exceed 200 words.

We make it possible for you to compete for a prize even though you do not own one of these wonderful new instruments

WE have set aside a number of specially tested New Edisons. These instruments will be placed in homes in this city on three days' absolutely free trial.

During this trial you and your family can listen to Mr. Edison's new invention and form an opinion of it, just as well as if you owned the instrument.

There is absolutely no obligation except that you take good care of the beautiful instrument and the wonderful Re-Creations of music which will be sent with it.

Next week is Edison Week, and this offer is limited strictly to Edison Week.

Come to Our Store Monday Morning

and enter the Edison Week Free Trial Prize Contest before it is too late. Remember that the number of instruments available for these free trials is limited, and it will necessarily have to be a case of first come, first served.

Professional Writers Barred From the Contest

Professional writers and members of the phonograph trade are barred from this prize contest. Mr. Edison does not want finely written opinions. He wants opinions that come right from the heart and that are couched in unstudied language. An opinion may be misspelled and ungrammatical, and still win a prize. Literary embellishments are not desired.

The conditions of the contest are perfectly simple. They can be explained to you in a minute if you will call at our store.

her home: I wonder—I wonder—if the good God will not take her with the fading of the leaves—and—so he did. How brave she was—how full of courage—how full of vitality which was always a marvel to me! My dear friend and yours is not dead. The frail and weary body we shall soon lay to rest, but the loving, tender Mother—the unselfish, gracious friend, the noble, consecrated Christian—this friend of Christ, is not dead. She is only in the Other Room—the Upper Room—and the door is open between. Perhaps she is nearer to us this afternoon than we know.

We have reason this afternoon to thank God for such a life. How much poorer Jacksonville would have been without her presence all these years. How she added to the moral and spiritual riches of the community and of the world, to the happiness of others, to the strength of the church, to the peace and comfort of many, many lives. The world is brighter and better and a holier place because she lived here and heaven will be nearer and dearer to us all because she lives there.

We, Mrs. Davis and I, were coming back in a week or ten days to see her again—to see if we could not join with other loving hearts to minister to her in some tender

way. We have come back but not now to minister to her, for she is now being ministered unto by her blessed Lord, for she has entered in "the city that hath foundations Whose builder and Maker is God"—and all that I can do now is to speak these imperfect, incomplete words of appreciation of her life, which in itself was radiant with the very light and life of God.

Once again, the old words are true—

"The path of the just is a shining light which shineth more and more unto the perfect day." "The righteous shall flourish like the palm tree. He shall grow like a cedar in Lebanon. Those that be planted in the house of the Lord shall flourish in the courts of our God. They shall bring forth fruit in old age. To show that the Lord is upright. He is my rock and there is no unrighteousness in Him."

"The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away"—taken to Himself—"blessed, blessed be the name of the Lord."

"I cannot say and I will not say That she is dead, she is just away." This friend of mine, who walks with God."

Concrete Pavements

By E. H. PIEPMER, Jr.

Maintenance Engineer, Illinois State Highway Department

Concrete pavements for city streets and for rural highway improvements are becoming very popular. This may be evidenced by the statement that over 1,600 miles of concrete pavement were laid during 1915. Figures indicate that more concrete pavements have been constructed during the past three years than any other of the modern types of roads. It seems, therefore, due time that engineers direct more attention to studying the various phases of concrete pavement construction in order that it may be developed to its highest efficiency.

Concrete pavement construction has been advanced during recent years on account of necessity or demand for some type of improvement that will withstand the rapidly increasing modern traffic. Ten or fifteen years ago, gravel and macadam roads were recognized almost exclusively, as the most practical and economic type of improved road. Heavy combined auto and horse-drawn traffic of recent years, however, has rapidly disintegrated the surface of such roads forming a dust nuisance, dangerous ruts and unsightly depressions that require constant and expensive maintenance. The rapid change in traffic conditions, therefore, has made it necessary in a great many instances to devise some form of pavement that would better resist this traffic, be low in first cost, free from dust and be reasonable in upkeep.

Concrete pavements have been low in initial cost. First on account of the reasonably low cost of portland cement; second, on account of the use of local materials for the aggregate; third on account of the utilization of local unskilled labor; fourth because of the rapidity with which the material could be mixed and placed. All of these conditions have tended to make concrete a desirable and economical material for pavement construction.

Concrete pavements which have been constructed of hard, clean aggregates and finished perfectly smooth are practically dustless under even the most severe traffic. This is due: First to the hardness of the material, and second, to the smoothness of the finished pavement. This smooth surface of the monolithic concrete road in contrast with the block pavement contains no regular joints which tend to retain dust. This smooth and dustless surface is very desirable for rapidly moving modern traffic.

The maintenance or upkeep on concrete pavements has not been definitely determined on account of the recent development of this kind of road. Cost figures to date have indicated, however, that the maintenance of the pavement proper, for the first five years, will not exceed about one-half cent per square yard per year under the average traffic conditions in Illinois. This figure does not furnish definite information concerning the maintenance of such pavements over a longer period but indications are that the cost of maintenance of such pavements is not going to be excessive, providing that the maintenance work is effectively performed.

The maintenance of concrete pavements consists chiefly in filling the cracks and joints in the pavement with a suitable bituminous material. It is usually necessary to fill all such cracks once each year; however under heavy traffic, an occasional patching is necessary the second time. On a few pavements, it becomes necessary to cover slight depressions, pit holes and similar imperfections with bituminous material to prevent disintegration. This is not done very often, and when it is necessary it affords sure proof of improper construction.

The practice in constructing concrete pavements has been to place joints at regular intervals to control or regulate the cracks. The work involved in constructing a pavement with joints at defined intervals, in filling these joints with a compound that would readily contract and expand with the pavement together with armoring the edges of the joints with steel plates becomes expensive and in a great many cases the results are unsatisfactory. Road engineers are now questioning this item of expense and are giving preference to a monolithic or continuous slab with a careful system of maintenance on all the cracks as they form. At any rate experience is indicating that on rural highway pavements, at least, that satisfactory results may be secured by eliminating entirely the expansion or contraction joints. The expense of installing joints in the original construction of a pavement is usually sufficient to maintain the pavement surface for a period of ten to fifteen years. If more attention is given to proportioning, mixing, finishing and curing of the concrete pavements, better results may be secured and at the same or less expense.

In recent years a great deal of attention has been given to reinforcing concrete pavements to eliminate cracking and to prevent the cracks from opening up. The reinforcing steel does not always prevent concrete pavements from cracking, but a wire mesh or steel bar imbedded in the concrete does aid in preventing the cracks from opening up to any serious extent. Reinforcing steel is used more extensively on wide city streets where the cracks should be eliminated or concealed as much as possible for a matter of general appearance. Reinforcement is quite often used of concrete pavement, and in such cases is usually placed between the two courses or about 2 1/2 inches from the wearing surface. The added expense of 15 or 20 cents per square yard of surface required for reinforcement is, however, a questionable expenditure from the economic standpoint, particularly for rural highway pavements.

There are a great many materials or compounds on the market that are highly recommended as an aid to cement in concrete pavements. The addition of various compounds which are supposed to fill the voids in concrete, thereby making it more dense and porous to moisture, is supposed to prevent the pavement from cracking and assist it in resisting wear. There have been a number of experimental sections of pavements built with the addition of various compounds, but their value to date is still very questionable.

Experience clearly indicates that while there are perhaps a few conditions that justify special treatment such as having the pavement marked or cut into regular sections by means of joints and having these joints armored with soft steel plates to protect their edges, and reinforcing the pavement with wire mesh or steel bars and even adding some of the hardening or filler compounds, all of which are beneficial under certain conditions; yet it seems that under the majority of conditions existing in Illinois, the road engineer is more justified in giving a thorough study to the proper proportioning and mixing of the concrete aggregates and the finishing and curing of the concrete pavement surface.

The tendency in concrete road construction in many places seems to be to devise machines and means of laying more concrete pavements and reducing its first cost at the quality of the concrete. This practice is proving to be only a detriment to such pavements. This can be evidenced by a careful inspection of a number of roads that have been in service.

Most specifications for concrete road construction merely specify the mixture of cement, sand and coarse aggregate by a proportion of 1:2:3 or 1:2:3 1/2 without specifications covering the most effective gradation and quality of the aggregates. It is evident that 1 part of cement with 2 parts of ordinary building sand mixed with 3 or 3 1/2 parts parts of gravel or stone selected without regard to gradation will not give as dense or strong a mixture as when all the materials are well graded so as to obtain a maximum density.

Maximum density and quality of concrete are essential points in the construction of a concrete pavement. Maximum density can be secured by careful gradation of all material which can only be accomplished by specifying the amount of material that shall pass various sizes of screens. Inasmuch as the wearing qualities of a pavement depend almost entirely upon the quality of the aggregates, it is very important that all aggregates be tested for abrasion and compression. It is quite common to specify the French coefficient of wear on the coarse aggregate that enters into a pavement but rarely does a specification cover a coefficient of wear on the sand. The claim is often made that the coarse aggregate in a pavement takes all the wear in a concrete pavement; however, inspection shows that the cement mortar does take considerable wear and at the same time regulates the wear on the coarse aggregate. It would seem therefore, that a more rigid test on concrete sand should be specified. The usual test on sand is to make cement briquettes and test for tensile strength when it would seem that compression tests and some form of abrasion test would more nearly represent the condition that exists in a pavement and which would serve as a comparison with various materials just as well as the tensile strength.

The maximum density of a mixture does not always determine the strength of concrete. All tests and experiments show that the materials should be more thoroughly mixed before placing than is done on the average paving job. It is true that specifications requiring a more thorough mix will increase the cost, but at the same time such requirements will add materially to the strength of the pavement. In order to maintain the efficiency of the construction forces and to secure a more thorough mix of the aggregates, it seems that there is still a great opportunity for the machine companies or inventors to devise a mixer which by mechanical means will more thoroughly mix the materials in the same time that is now allotted by specifications on concrete pavement construction.

One of the most important operations connected with constructing a concrete pavement is that of finishing and curing the surface so as to insure smoothness and uniformity. A great many pavements which have been constructed of good material, properly mixed, are now defective on account of poorly finished surfaces. The public is always the first to condemn a pavement and a road is often condemned on account of a wavy and nonuniform surface even though the quality of the material in it may be of the highest grade. An inspection of the various construction jobs will often reveal the fact that there is a wide variance in the requirements for finishing concrete pavements, many require the final finish to be made with wood floats, and some with steel floats, another omitting the floats and using only a strike board. Some engineers require the freshly laid concrete to be floated immediately behind the strikeboard. Others require floating to be done at considerable distance behind the mixer, or when the concrete begins to set firm just prior to the initial strike. The main desire in both cases is to secure a uniform and dense surface. It seems therefore that more attention should be given to devising some practical, mechanical device for striking and finishing a concrete pavement that will make it more dense and uniform than the usual method of hand floating.

A careful inspection of concrete pavements that have been in use for a number of years indicates that a well-constructed and cured concrete pavement wears very slowly even under the heaviest traffic in Illinois. The wear that has been chiefly noticeable is the result from a nonuniform surface, caused from poor floating and improper curing of the surface in the original construction. The use of any machinery or methods, therefore, that will aid in securing a uniform wearing surface will result in a better wearing and more satisfactory pavement. The selection of a type of a pavement is not always based on its economy alone, but where economy is the main consideration there is a great field for the well-constructed concrete pavement.

DON'T SCOLD, MOTHER! THE CROSS CHILD IS BILIOUS, FEVERISH

Look At Tongue! If Coated, Clean Little Stomach, Liver, Bowels

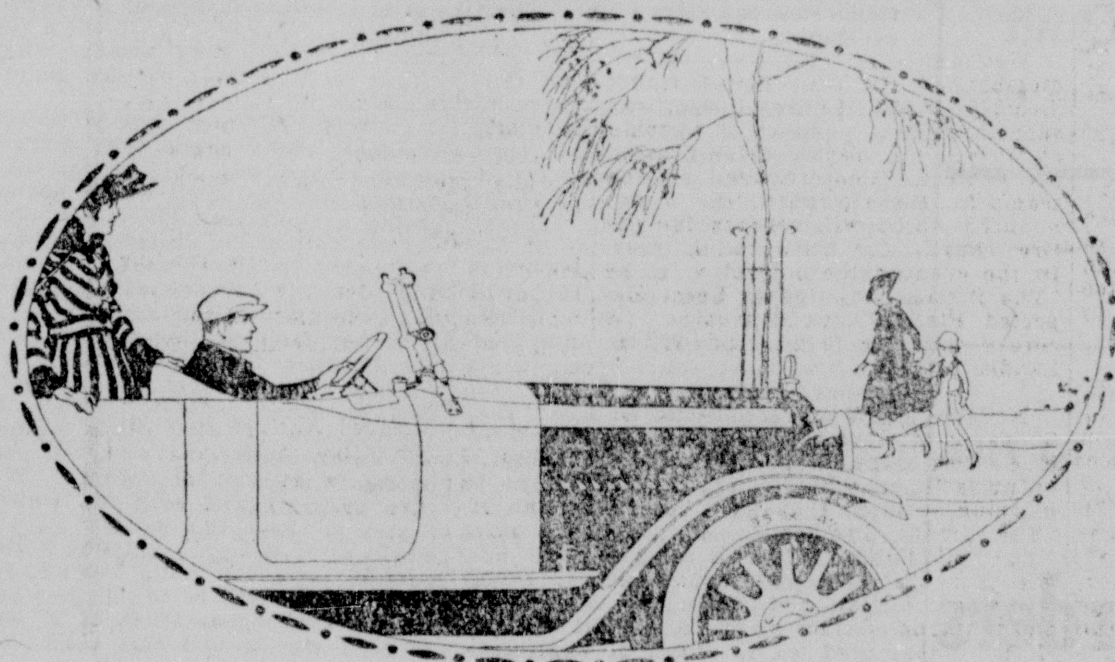

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish—full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, does not eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomachache, indigestion, diarrhoea, a taste of "California Fig Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Fig Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Adv.

PAIGE

The Standard of Value and Quality

Prompt Action Will Save You Money

It is now only a matter of a few weeks before the price of the Fairfield "Six-46" will be substantially increased.

As every business man knows, the costs of materials and labor have been soaring for the past year—and are still soaring. Many commodities cost twice as much as they did even six months ago.

So, of course, there is only one thing for a manufacturer to do—increase the selling price of his product in proportion to the increased cost of materials.

We absolutely refuse to "compromise" on the quality of Paige cars. We insist upon using the best materials no matter what they may cost.

So, now is the time to act if you are interested in saving money. The best of all light sixes can now be purchased for $1375. If you wait too long, the opportunity will be gone.

Remember, the Paige Company challenges any manufacturer in the industry to produce a car—within three hundred dollars of the Paige price—which offers as much luxury, comfort and all around dependability as the Fairfield "Six-46." This challenge stands uncontested.

Won't you make it a point to see the Paige Dealer today?

You will find, in all probability, an accumulation of tartar on the enamel and bits of food deposit hiding between the crevices. YOUR DENTIFRICE does not FULLY CLEAN! Loss of teeth is caused usually by one of two conditions—Pyorrhea or decay, both of which develop, as a rule, only in the mouth where germ-laden tartar is present.

SENRECO, the recently discovered formula of a dental specialist, is two-fold in its action. First, it REALLY CLEANS, embodying specially prepared, soluble granules unusually effective in cleaning away food deposits. Second, it is particularly destructive to the germ of Pyorrhea. Yet it is perfectly safe, containing neither injurious chemicals nor hard grit.

Avoid Pyorrhea and decay. Get Senreco from your dealer today. In large tubes, 25c. Send 4c to Senreco, 304 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio, for liberal-sized trial package.

INTEREST GROWS IN WOMEN'S VOTE STRENGTH

FOUR MILLION HAVE
RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE

Their Action Almost Certain to Decide Coming Presidential Election—Reasons Shown for Support of Hughes.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 10.—As election day draws near, with the result in a number of states particularly in the West, still in doubt, more and more interest attaches to the influence which the 4,000,000 voting
women of the twelve equal suffrage
states will exert at the polls on November 7. How a large proportion of this great and powerful army
of voters will cast their ballots
against President Wilson and Democratic national candidates, is a question which is agitating the minds of all political leaders. That the Democrats are deeply stirred over the effect of the woman's vote, is evidenced by the various means to which they have resorted in an effort to counteract it. On the other hand leaders in all the other parties—
Republican, Socialist, Prohibition—are figuring as to just how much of their ranks will be augmented by the hosts of Democratic women of the West who refuse to support President Wilson and his party this year because of their stubborn opposition to the federal woman suffrage amendment.

Reasons for Opposing Wilson
Reports to the headquarters here
from Woman's Party workers in the various equal suffrage states, indicate a number of reasons why a majority of the voting women of the West intend to cast their ballots
against the party which has failed
during the present administration
to give serious consideration to any of the numerous and earnest
appeals from the women of the United States for action on the Susan B. Anthony amendment.
Briefly these reasons for supporting the Woman's Party in its opposition to President Wilson and the Democratic candidates for Congress may be summarized as follows:

1. The Woman's Party method is the only logical, practical, effective means of securing nationwide woman suffrage. Only by defeating the party which has refused to read the handwriting on the wall
can other political leaders be impressed with the fact that the appeal of the women of the United States
for their rights cannot longer be denied with impunity. The Democratic party must be defeated because it has failed to act. It can be judged by its deeds only. It missed its golden opportunity. It holds out no hope for the future.
Again, it is only by showing their power in the field of national politics that the women of the nation
can hope ever to gain nation-wide suffrage, for the state method is barred. On account of the impossibility of amending most state constitutions, money and time spent on state campaigns are wasted. The national way is the only expedient,
the only effective way.

Make Suffrage Issue
2. The Woman's Party has made nation-wide woman suffrage
as paramount an issue as the tariff preparation, peace, currency or any other question over which men
divide in their allegiance to party.
Just as men voters refuse to keep
in power a party whose principles
they do not believe and whose actions do not satisfy them, so women
voters must refuse to support a party
which does nothing toward enfranchising the women of the nation. Political freedom for all American women is a paramount issue. It deserves the support of all women voters.

3. To whom would the unen-franchised women of the United States naturally appeal for aid than
to their voting sisters in the West?
They appealed to President Wilson
and failed. They have been appealing for years to many of the eastern states but in vain. If the men with power will not help them, to what power can the eastern women turn
more naturally, with more hope
of favorable response than to the western women with 4,000,000
votes at their disposal.

In Earlier Years
4. The United States in its early days lighted the lamp of political liberty to the world. In the same way, the western women, themselves
enjoying political liberty and knowing its blessings, should help the rest of the women of the country to share this right.

5. It will help to protect their own political rights and American citizenship, for no western woman
today can move to a non-voting
state or marry a foreigner without losing her suffrage rights or her citizenship, as the case may be.

6. The women of the West have the vote; there is greater need for the women of the East to have it,
because social and labor conditions
in the East are in more need of betterment.

7. This year presents a golden opportunity; and if the women fail
now to stand and to vote for the cause of enfranchisement for all American women, another such opportunity may not be presented for a long time.

8. There is no just, no sensible reason why women should be compelled to resort to so much more difficult means of securing their suffrage than men. In the early days on the admission of most of the states into the Union, suffrage
was granted under the constitutions approved by federal action, to most of the male voters in the states.
Men have never been obliged to go about the streets begging for their suffrage rights in their respective states; it was granted to them as a matter of justice. Foreigners coming to these shores secure their right to vote with far more ease
than American women; all the foreigners have to do is to wait a few years, and then, although still illiterate in many instances as compared with the American women who beg in vain at the portals of eastern legislatures and of a southern-born president, these foreign

men are privileged to cast ballots
for persons whose names they scarcely know and whose principles they understand not at all.

Women of the West

9. The Women of the West in joining the Woman's Party believe that they should show themselves
at least as magnanimous as the big
and broad-minded men of the West.
The men of the West gave them the right to vote. Why should they refuse to help their eastern sisters
to secure it?

10. The Western women in the Woman's Party argue that if they stand in the way of nation-wide
woman suffrage, they would be opposing a movement which will benefit not only to the United States but the world in many ways. Woman Suffrage will improve conditions in the United States in many ways. If it is not granted, this country will not be in a favorable position after the war to meet the competition of other countries which, in appreciation of what their women
are doing during the war, are preparing to grant them suffrage. Woman suffrage will help the United States to lead the nations of the world after the war; without it this country may fall sadly behind, for social justice will be the biggest factor in the regeneration of a battle-torn world; and this calls for justice for women.

1. Woman suffrage will be the best method of keeping the United States out of war in the future. The Democrats have claimed that Wilson
"kept us out of war." Their opponents question the accuracy of this and declare that the several expeditions into Mexico constituted vic-
tual war, while others in a position
to know whereof they speak, assert that the United States has been nearer the verge of war on several occasions as a result of President Wilson's foreign policies than would have been possible under a president with different foreign policies. War ultimately is determined by the voice of the people. But with women voting there would certainly be less danger of this country becoming involved in a disastrous foreign war than if women had no say as to whether limitless war funds
should be issued or not.

These are some of the principal reasons why a majority of the western voting women are putting
"suffrage first" and voting against the party which has refused to listen to the demands of the women of the United States for the rights of American political liberty.

MAVERICKS

The melancholy days are here
The leaves are turning brown,
But all the gloom is soon dispelled
When Illinois makes first down.

Only 71 more days until Christmas.

While former Gov. Hanly is traveling over the country abusing the Republican party and Republican leaders he seems to forget that but for that same party he probably never would have been heard of.

We presume that shearing a hydraulic ram might be regarded
among the light occupations.

If State's Attorney Hoyne will raid a few of the leading hotels he will find a lot of holdup men stationed about the coat rooms and lavatories.

"Talking thru the hat" was a dead
industry until President Wilson got into the controversy with Germany
about submarine warfare, with England about the mails and with Mexico about saluting the flag.

John M. Parker, candidate for vice president on the Progressive ticket was officially notified of his nomination Saturday. Mr. Parker
expressed great surprise at the news.

Gov. Dunne visited Jacksonville on Friday the 13th. Evidently the Democrats are not superstitious.

Russia is accusing the Germans of throwing infected garlic into Rou-mania. If the infected garlic is any worse than the ordinary garlic we don't blame the Russians for objecting.

We are told that potatoes can be used for making bread. At the present prices we are inclined to the belief that flour would be just as cheap.

It begins to look as the Greece
would soon be out of the frying pan
and into the fire.

That Florida judge who is kicking
about hotel rates and taxi cab
charges in New York evidently has never spent much time in Palm Beach or St. Augustine in his own state.

A Peoria Journal headline says,
Three Peorians Pass Bar. It must have been an unusual sight in that city.

Rube Marquard, pitcher for the Brooklyn National league team, said
he was as sure of Wilson's election as he was that Brooklyn would win the world's championship. It looks as tho Mr. Wilson's chances are rather slim.

There is one man in Illinois who undoubtedly will hope and pray for the re-election of both Gov. Dunne and the present sheriff of Jacksonville. That man is Elston Scott,
in the Jacksonville jail under sentence to be hanged for murder. Scott has been reprieved by Gov. Dunne
several times because of the Sheriff's refusal to give the chief executive assurance that the hanging
would not develop into a free show.
So long as Gov. Dunne and the present sheriff remain in office Scott is assured of living until he dies of natural causes.

RUSSIAN ARMY NOW EFFICIENT MACHINE

COMPARES FAVORABLY WITH ANY IN THE FIELD

Men Are Well Clothed, Well Fed
and in Good Physical Condition—
Regiments Just Relieved From Trench Duty Show No Trace of Hardships Experienced.

AT THE FRONT WITH THE TENTH RUSSIAN ARMY, Oct., 12.
—It is only at the active front, well
removed from the inaction and pessimism which poison the outlook of the large cities in Russia, that one is able to form a fair estimate of what Russia has accomplished during the past year in transforming
a poorly equipped, inadequately munitioned and consequently dispirited
army into a well ordered machine
from which every trace of disorder
and inefficiency has disappeared. It is at first almost impossible to realize that the present organization,
which compares favorably with that of any army in the field, has been built out of the wreck of last summer's disaster and that the same commanders who were then occupi-
ing the front with the task of leading their crippled forces into a position of safety, are now confidently
and eagerly speaking of an advance
into the territory lost to them in last summer's campaign. A general who took part in the retreat from Warsaw and who commanded one of the divisions which heroically
strove to delay the German advance
was asked by an Associated Press
correspondent to compare the conditions which prevailed in the army
a year ago with those of today.

"There is no comparison," answered the general. "Last year we had no ammunition, and we were in no condition to withstand the powerful and well organized offensive of the enemy. On a small part of my division survived the continuous shell fire of the enemy. But today
we are their equals. It is the difference between chaos and order."

On the broad lawn which flanked
the divisional headquarters, a reserve regiment, which had been given
a half holiday, were expending
their excess energy in games of leap frog, blind man's bluff, three legged
races and biazar Russian dancing,
done to the music of an impromptu
soldiers chorus, who sang the strange, half barbaric chants of their race. Altho this regiment had just been relieved from work in the trenches the day before, the men
were all in fine physical condition,
and were well clothed and well fed,
and showed no trace of having experienced any greater hardship than that of living in the open air and eating three wholesome meals a day. At a short distance from headquarters one could see the white tents of the soldiers gleaming thru
the open spaces cleared in the pine forest which covered a knoll which had been chosen as the best drained
and most healthful spot for the sleeping quarters of the army.
Faint streaks of smoke curled up ward from the outdoor kitchens
where dinner was being prepared.
On returning from the trenches,
each soldier had been given a bath
and fresh linen, while the clothes he had been wearing were put thru a disinfecting machine and laundered.
The Russian soldier lives better,
eats more, and enjoys a much more contented frame of mind than before the war.

The army owes the great part of the comforts which have been provided for it, to the Zemsky Soyuz,
or union of town councils, which has been the chief manufacturer and distributing agent of all military supplies. Thru the gigantic strides in organization and output which
this union has made since the beginning of the war, it has been able not only to assist materially in the manufacture and purchase of guns and munitions, but to see that every part of the army is plentifully supplied with hospitals and medical apparatus, bath houses, clean linen and all of the comforts of life which now surround the army. After visiting numerous points along the western front, the correspondent
found that the model conditions
which at first might have seemed to belong only to a few exceptional localities which had been chosen for purposes of exhibition, applied universally to the whole area of the front.

It is to these tangible improvements in conditions that the less tangible but equally important moral of the Prussian troops is due. The Russian soldier, illiterate and ignorant as he generally is, is not unresponsive to the currents of confidence or depression which run thru the organism of an army. Last summer he was quite aware of the unfortunate circumstances which made retreat inevitable and impaired the efficiency of whatever unit
to which he belonged. But he has now had an opportunity of seeing the conditions reversed. He knows that he is backed up by an organization in which no detail has been overlooked and he is eager to display
his new-born efficiency.

WHEAT BUYERS SHOW INCREASING CAUTION

Uncasiness of Prospects of Submarine Activities Has Bearish Effect on Market.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Uncasiness of prospects of submarine activities between now and Monday had a bearish effect today on wheat. The outcome was an unsettled close, with December $1.57; May $1.57; to $1.57 and the market as a whole 1/2 cents off to 1/2 cents up compared with yesterday's finish. Corn lost 1/4 to 1/2 cents and oats 1/4 to 1/2 cents. Provisions closed at a range which varied from 60 cents decline to a rise of 2 1/2c.

Notwithstanding bullish crop reports from Argentina, buyers of wheat showed increasing caution almost from the start.

Some of the selling which depressed the wheat market was ascribed to a prominent trader here who has recently figured as a leading bull. Congestion of transportation on eastern roads especially at Buffalo had a good deal to handicap the bull side of the market and so too did signs of an enlargement of the United States visible supply total of Monday.

Corn eased off with wheat. Export corn sales of 610,000 bushels however prevented any radical setback. Big receipts weakened oats. The total for the week was more than double the amount of the corresponding time last year.

Provisions averaged lower with hogs and because of a falling off in shipments. Nevertheless, October lard remained strong and scored a small advance.

LIBERAL RECEIPTS LOWER HOG PRICES

Cattle Also Unusually Numerous for Saturday—Most of Sheep and Lambs Go Direct to Killers.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Much more liberal receipts than had been looked for gave hog prices today a downward swing. Cattle were also unusually numerous for a Saturday. Most of the sheep and lambs went to killers direct.

Morgan County Boys Tell of State Fair School

Two excellent reports of the State Fair school were read the past week at the precinct farmers' institute held in Morgan county. W. Harold Hamm, aged 15 years, read his report at the Chapin institute and Glenn Ebrey, 14 years old, read a report of the school before the institute at Franklin. Both boys elected stock judging and both received the mark of "good" from the school authorities. The boys were sent as a reward for having received the highest marks in the final examination, given by County Superintendent Vasconcellos last spring. The rules laid down by the state association prescribe, that each boy receiving the free course prepare a report, read the paper before a farmers' institute and have the same published. The reports of the school follow:

(BY W. HAROLD HAMM.)

The Boys' State Fair School held its seventh annual session in connection with the State Fair, in Springfield, September 15th to the 24th, 1916.

It was my pleasure, having earned the highest grade of any town boy in the final examination, to be one of the two boys to represent Morgan county at the fair.

I arrived in Springfield, about 8:30 o'clock, Saturday morning, September 16th, and went directly to the school, which was located in the northwest corner of the Fair grounds just east of the Automobile entrance. I registered and was assigned to my tent which was numbered and also assigned to my class. There were five different courses from which you could choose and I took Stock Judging, as that was the one which was most interesting to me. The other classes were Dairy Husbandry, Rope Tying, Farm Crops and Horticulture.

The first lecture attended by the class in stock judging was "Opportunity in Agriculture," by Prof. W. F. Handichin. He made a very clear and interesting talk. Full of good things to remember.

On Sunday morning we went to the assembly tent to hear Dr. John Dill Robertson, of Chicago, give his noted lecture, "Cells and Their Battles." Some of the things mentioned in his talk were: The first kingdom God made was mineral, the second, vegetable, and the third animal. Man is made up of all three and is a fearfully and wonderfully made being. A cell is a given space and contains protoplasm, which is a jelly like substance. A blood cell is 1-1000 of an inch in diameter. Blood is made up of water and corpuscles. Water is made up of Hydrogen and Oxygen (H2-O). Corpuscles are red and white in color. There are 5,000,000 red to every 10,000 white and the purpose of the red was to carry oxygen to all parts of the body and the white to cast disease germs out of the body. Yeast mould and disease germs all belong to the same family. They are some of the points but the Doctor made all more full and very interesting. After the Doctor had finished the boys all stood and cheered for some time.

On Monday our class met in Class tent number five and listened to a lecture by E. V. Brumington, on beef cattle. We were told that in a beef cattle we want an animal that is strictly meat producing. A beef steer must be short coupled, having a short neck, be wide in front and carry the width well back thru the flanks. And in all he put together, compactly. Some of the points of quality are: Fine head and skin. In fat animals more meat with less weight, containing more high priced cuts. The three men taken into consideration in the life of a beef are the breeder, who breeds and raises them to six months old. The feeder who keeps and feeds them for a year and a half. The butcher, the third man, however, will use them at any age.

In the afternoon H. E. Bilger, road engineer of the State Highway Department, gave us an interesting talk on "Good Roads." He analyzed the cost of building four different kinds of roads. First, he plainly showed that a dirt road can be built for $1,000 per mile and be maintained for the small cost of $50 per year. Second, that a gravel road can be built for $4,000 per mile and can be maintained, allowing for depreciation, for 30 years for $9,500. Third, a concrete road, costing $8,500 a mile, could be kept in good condition for the same length of time at a cost of $12,800. Fourth, a brick road may be built at a cost of $11,000 per mile and be kept in good condition for a period of 30 years for $2,500. However, in discussing roads we were told that the kind to build depends upon the traffic and location.

On Tuesday, the lecture was given by J. B. Rice, on hog judging. He said that 40 per cent of the hogs in the United States are raised in the six corn belt states. In judging a brood sow, the following points should be considered: she must be long, deep, and have strong legs, with a good width, medium height. After this lecture we went to the assembly tent and heard J. E. Whitchurch lecture on "Soils and their Treatment." He said that the wealth of Illinois lies in her soil. That some of the essentials in crop production are: home of the plant; selection of the seed; heat; moisture and food. This was followed by an interesting address by Senator

W. Duff Pierce, the main thought of which was that the era of opportunity for the poor man is not ended, as some people think, but only for those who wait for opportunity to turn up, in place of turning them up.

On Wednesday, W. G. Kammlade spoke on the Draft horse. Other speakers were Prof. R. E. Hieronymus, of the State University and Claude Harper, who took for his subject "Sheep." This was followed by a very interesting speech by Governor Dunne, which was much enjoyed by all the boys.

The whole week was one full of interest and pleasure and altho it is impossible to relate all in this paper, I feel as if I have collected a great deal of information that will be of help to me in many ways.

The fact that the law will not permit a boy to attend the school a second time, is regretted by every boy, as they have a desire to go again. In closing let me say that it would pay every boy in school to try to complete their work in such a way as to win a place as a representative.

With very best wishes to the success of the school, I remain,

Very respectfully,
Harold T. Hamm.

(BY GLENN EBREY.)

It was my good fortune to be one of the two boys to represent Morgan county at the Boys' State Fair School, held in connection with the State Fair at Springfield, September 15-23, 1916. The honor of representing my county came as a reward for having received the highest grade of any boy living in the rural districts of the county, in the final examination, last spring.

I arrived in Springfield about 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning, September 16th, over the Chicago & Alton railroad. I soon found the Boys' State Fair School, which was encamped on the North West corner of the fair grounds. I registered and was assigned to my tent.

Saturday evening, there was a lecture "Opportunities in Agriculture" by Professor W. F. Handichin. Some points in his lecture follows: Agriculture is a new occupation beginning about 1850. It should be profitable in the future. It must be studied as a business, and if so studied, farm life will each year become more attractive. The greatest opportunity for service, on the farm, is by producing what people need.

Sunday morning at 8:30 o'clock, Dr. John Dill Robertson made a fine address on "Cells and Their Battles." Monday the 18th, was the opening day of the school. I was in section B, and chose Stock Judging as my subject. The teachers in charge of this division were W. H. Smith and a Mr. Rice.

The first subject I had Monday morning, was judging beef cattle, by W. H. Smith. He gave us a short, interesting lecture, saying that beef cattle must be judged from three standpoints: the butcher, the feeder and the breeder. The next was an address on good roads by H. E. Bilger. Some of the points he mentioned were the design of the road. There are 35,600 miles of road in to be built, depends upon the kind of traffic. He also gave us some figures, as to the cost of different kinds of roads.

My first subject, Tuesday, was stock judging hogs, by Mr. Rice. He said the hog is a one purpose animal. 40 per cent of the hogs in the United States are in the corn producing belt, and that 40 per cent of all the hogs in the world in the United States. At 10:45 there was an address "Soils and their Treatment," by W. E. Whitchurch. He made it clear that the wealth of Illinois lies in her soil; that we must produce more food per acre, as the population increases.

Wednesday morning there was a lecture by W. G. Kammlade on stock judging horses. In explaining how to judge a draft horse, he said the horse should weigh 165 or over. Its height should not be less than 15.3 hands, it should have breadth, depth and should be compact, with well spring ribs, short back and good action.

At 10:15 we assembled to hear a lecture, "Soils and their treatment," continued, by J. E. Whitchurch. He said that legumes have the power to get nitrogen out of the air, which is itself, about 3-4 nitrogen. In speaking of corn he said the average yield in Illinois from 1903 to 1914 was 39 bushels per acre. The average in 1915 was 47 bushels per acre. He also told us how the things which plants need could be secured.

On Thursday morning there was a lecture on "Stock Judging sheep" by Claude Harper. He told us, in part, that sheep were one of the earliest classes of animals; that most of our sheep came from Spain, and were readily classed into two general classes, the fine wool type and the mutton type.

At 9:30 Friday morning, Governor Dunne addressed the school and spoke of the value of Illinois land and its productions, and how Illinois ranks with other states in many different ways. His lecture was very interesting to all the boys who gave close attention.

The next was a lecture "Soils and their Treatment" continued by A. W. Nolan. He said that everybody who owns farms in the next few years must make the very best use of what they have. Improve the plants and animals, and control the pests, such as diseases and insects. He said wood is being used four times as fast as produced. Farmers should set out trees to grow wood and that something would have to be done to overcome the insects that now destroy millions of dollars worth of crops.

At the school we used Uncle Sam's tents, cots and blankets. Captain Simmons and his men gave us some military training Thursday evening we marched to the Amphitheatre, and were reviewed by Governor Dunne.

On Monday afternoon the boys from this district, with the Assistant Superintendent, visited Lincoln's monument, the Supreme Court building, the State House and the Arsenal. This in itself, was an interesting trip.

In closing, let me say that the week was one full of interest and profit, and I feel well repaid for the effort made that permitted me to be a representative. With the best of wishes for the success of the Boys' State Fair School, I am

Cordially yours,
Glenn Ebrey.

ROOSEVELT TO MINERS AT WILKESBARRE

moals. The unemployed were numbered not by the thousands, but the scores of thousands; and I was in active correspondence with men and women in other cities, Chicago, Detroit, and Philadelphia, where the conditions were just as bad as in New York. Every kind of provision had to be made, by private charities and by the public authorities, in order to care for the multitude of people who wished to work but who were in dire want because there was no work. The misery was widespread. For instance, the Board of Health of New York, had to pass a special resolution allowing the eating of horse meat (I think the exact phraseology gave permission to fatten old horses for slaughter and food), because every effort had to be made to give to those out of work the cheapest food that would sustain life. Remember that those times were normal. There was then no war. We were at peace. We were simply experiencing the normal results of legislative action under Mr. Wilson and the Democratic administration.

War Brought Activity

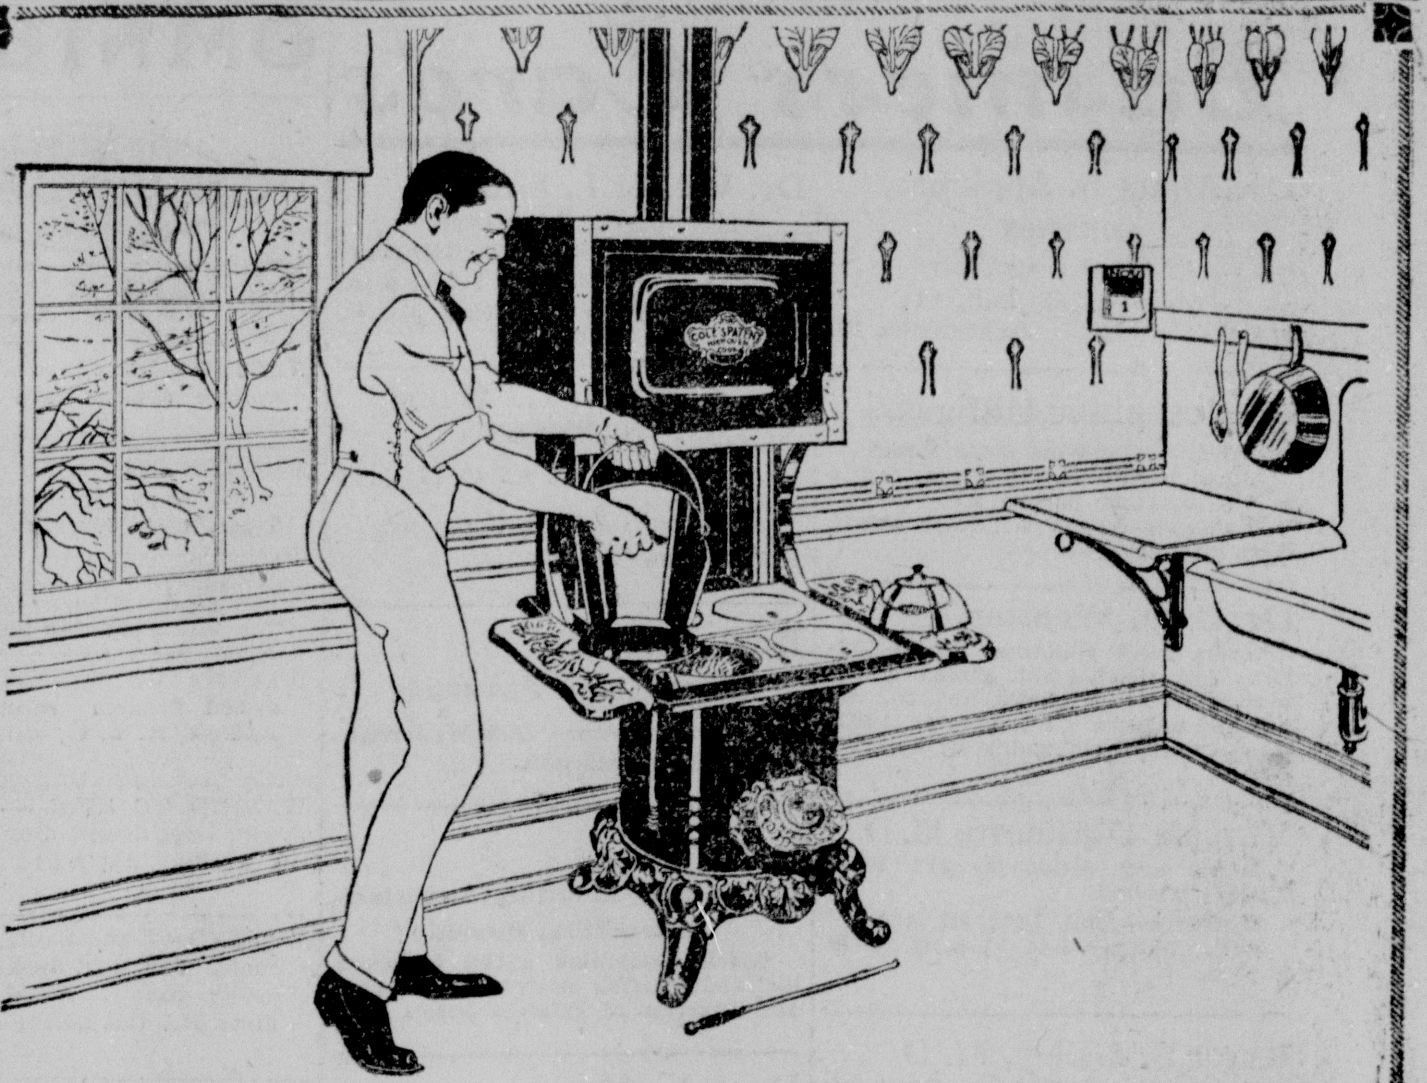

"The suffering was widespread throughout this country. Suddenly the war came. At one stroke this country was granted a measure of protection greater than any it had ever received under any tariff in its history. Moreover, the demand for munitions of war was stimulated to such an enormous degree as to completely reverse trade conditions. For example, comparing the fiscal years ending June 30, 1914, and June 30, 1916, that is, the year before the war and the year that has just elapsed, the losses in ordinary exports during the last year, compared to the former, were over two hundred million dollars; whereas there was a gain in exports of war material of nearly two billion dollars. If it were not for these artificial conditions, the suffering from unemployment in this country at this time would in all probability be as great as it was in 1914, and we would have seen two or three years of an industrial crisis at least as bad as any we have ever known in our history. The present stimulus is artificial. It will cease with the war conditions coming to an end. It will then be difficult to avoid some suffering anyhow. If Mr. Wilson is kept in office, this suffering will doubtless be prolonged and acute."

Threats Must Not Avail

"In short, you miners of Pennsylvania, I appeal to you, and I appeal to all wage-workers of the United States, both in the name of sound American citizenship, and also in the name of your real and permanent self-interest. No American citizen can afford to put the stamp of his approval on any law supposed to be passed for the benefit of anybody without investigation, under duress of threats or for fear of the loss of political power. I ask any men who are tempted to approve of the politician, big or little, whom they think has helped them by doing wrong in their interest, to remember that the man who for his profit does wrong in your interest will just as unhesitatingly do wrong against your interest, if ever he thinks it to his profit to do so."

"In the old days, thirty years ago, when I lived on a cow ranch in the short grass country, the branding iron and the cowboy took the place of fences, and our herds were managed by branding each calf with the brand of the cow it followed. If the calf was not branded the first year, then the next year when it was an unbranded yearling, it was called a naverick. By range law we were supposed to brand each naverick with the brand of the ranch on which it was found. One day I was riding across a neighbor's ranch with a puncher I had just hired, and we came across a naverick. We got down our ropes, threw the naverick, and built a little fire of sagebrush to heat one of the cinch rings, and the puncher started to run on the brand. I said, 'Put on the thistle brand'—the brand of the range we were on. He answered,

"All right, boss! I know my business," and in another minute he had put on my brand, remarking, "I always put on the boss's brand." I answered, "Well—go back to the ranch and get your time." He jumped up and said, "What's that for? I was putting on your brand, wasn't I?" I answered, "Yes, my friend, you were putting on my brand, and if you will steal for me you will steal from me!"

"This is a good rule to remember, for laboring men, farmers, professional men, business men, for all citizens of the United States, in dealing with their public servants. If a public servant will do wrong to please any particular class, it may be taken as absolutely certain that he will do wrong against the interest of that particular class when it becomes to his own profit to do so."
